Dear Chief and Council:

Ahneesh! I'am writing on behalf of the Homeland native brotherhood, We would like to say meegwetch for the hides that where donated to our group. We're in the process of building our group stronger and we would like focus our group on the traditional ways of our culture. We really can't say we're experiencing too many teachings because we're lacking support from our people, We all realize we made mistakes in the past but we can't do anything to change anything. We understand where we went wrong and we're working to make everything better but it would be nice to have the community support, If anyone can give us some advice feel free to write us or we could be contacted through Norm Tolls in social development (613) 545-4554 Ext, 2450.

I would like to say meegwetch again for your support and consideration, On behalf of all my brothers Meegwetch.

jobsOntario·Training ADDS AN ABORIGINAL BROKERS TO ITS PROVINCE WIDE NETWORK OF BROKERS

DESERONTO -- MPP Paul R. Johnson announced today, on behalf of Dave Cooke, Minister of Education and Training, that the Kagita Mikam Area Management Board will act as an aboriginal broker for jobsOntario·Training in this area.

With the goal of creating 360 jobs over the next two years, the Kagita Mikam Area Management Board will work with aboriginal people in Southeastern Ontario.

"jobsOntario · Training is a flexible, community-driven, peopleoriented program that works. So far, nearly 28,000 jobs have been created across Ontario. Our partnerships with Aboriginal Area Management Boards, such as Kagita Mikam AMB, allow us to meet the particular training and employment needs of Aboriginal peoples," said MPP Johnson.

The Kagita Mikam AMB joins several jobsOntario · Training brokers, who are working in this area to help long term unemployed people upgrade their skills and get back into the workforce. To date, These brokers have created close to 2,800 new jobs for program participants in Southeastern Ontario.

Recognizing the limited number of for-profit employers in aboriginal communities, aboriginal controlled non-profit employers will also be eligible for training credits.

"jobsOntario· Training is a program that recognizes and helps meet our unique needs by giving us the tools and dollars to get people in our community trained and back to work," said Kelly McQuaid of the Kagita Mikam Area Management Board.

jobsOntario · Training is a major component of the Ontario government's economic renewal program that includes significant investments in people and infrastructure, with an emphasis on education and training, to help Ontario get back to work.

Dear Mr. McCormick:

Barry Silver of the Ontario Native Affairs Secretariat has asked me to reply to your recent inquiry regarding the application of the retail sales tax on insurance premiums, in relation to First Nation people.

The amending legislation to establish the tax on insurance premiums, introduced in the Legislature on June 1, 1993, contains the following provision:

- "2.1(8) Despite subsection (1) or (2) no tax is payable under this section on premiums for,
- (f) contracts of insurance entered into by an Indian, a band or the council of a band in respect of real or personal property situated on a reserve or in respect of an Indian ordinarily resident on a reserve;"

Notice of this exemption has been included in sales tax information sent to insurance companies.

In the specific case of tax on automobile insurance, if a vehicle is owned by a Status Indian ordinarily resident on a reserve and is registered to a reserve address, the automobile insurance premium on the vehicle is not subject to retail sales tax.

I trust this is the information you require.

FIRST NATIONS SOLIDARITY DAY

Hon Bud Wildman (Minister Responsible for Native Affairs): I rise today to remind members of an important event now under way. It's an event of significance not only in Ontario but throughout Canada. It's an event evocative of a time that predates either of these jurisdictions and recalls cultures more tuned to the land itself than to boundaries drawn on it.

June 21 is First Nations Solidarity Day, an opportunity to reflect on the heritage unique to Canada that began before Europeans set foot on North American shores.

As legislators, we might particularly note that the traditions of government we are guided by today do not flow from the earliest political organization of present-day Ontario. We are in fact relative newcomers to the task of governing in Canada.

The history of aboriginal peoples is at the foundation of First Nations Solidarity Day. But this special occasion also celebrates optimism for the future and a united involvement in the present.

For example, this morning on Manitoulin Island in West Bay First Nation, sacred ceremonies and prayers began a week-long gathering of elders from all across the country. The elders are discussing cultural survival, self-determination and the future of aboriginal nations. The intent is that the knowledge and wisdom of the elders, with their concerns for social order and harmony, will spark the will of first nations leaders to form a sound base for self-government, which includes participation of all community members.

Many other aboriginal communities in Ontario undertook awareness gatherings, powwows and celebrations over the weekend, with yet more to come. These gatherings celebrate growing solidarity within native communities towards preservation and sharing of aboriginal cultures, languages and traditions, and to the goal of self-governance as well. Ontario has pledged its support to these goals.

In August 1991, I was honoured to sign, along with the Premier, a historic agreement between the province and the first nations in Ontario. The Statement of Political Relationship established the fundamental principle that Ontario and first nations will relate on a government-to-government basis, while recognizing that first nations have an inherent right to self-government.

Ontario is currently discussing self-government proposals and land claims issues with a number of aboriginal communities. We are also demonstrating our commitment to the Statement of Political Relationship through an approach that has involved virtually every ministry in this government.

Aboriginal health, for example, is a key issue within Ontario's aboriginal reform agenda. Government is working in partnership with aboriginal organizations to develop new and lasting solutions directed at holistic healing. We believe significant steps towards healing are essential to improved social and economic wellbeing of aboriginal people, and we are developing a comprehensive strategy to support aboriginal family healing.

The Jobs Ontario program includes training and job creation to meet the particular needs of aboriginal people. Initiatives by the Solicitor General supporting aboriginal policing and justice have demonstrated encouraging success to date. New fishing agreements between Ontario and native peoples will protect the province's fisheries while honouring aboriginal and treaty rights, and aboriginal language training, through our native-as-a-second-language school programs, is helping to preserve a core element of native culture.

This year, First Nations Day falls in the midst of the United Nations' International Year of the World's Indigenous People, hence all the more reason to turn our attention today to Ontario's best approach to the aboriginal community. Ontario's approach begins with the recognition that aboriginal people best understand their own aspirations. It is for them to define their goals in self-government.

As to the nature of those goals, a look to the past may be helpful. Iroquoian tradition offers us the wampum belt, a treaty document that uses parallel lines of beads to represent two canoes moving in the same river, in the same direction, and illustrating peaceful coexistence between equal peoples in a common land.

To me, these traditions tell us a hopeful story. They remind us of the human capacity for relationships, political or personal, less concerned with giving or taking and more concerned with sharing.

I'm proud to take this opportunity today to introduce an individual who combines the best of those traditions of his people with his own personal capabilities, and at the same time, gives back to his people, particularly the young people of his community, an individual who has overcome adversity to reach the top in his field. He is a credit to his people, a credit to the Garden River First Nation, a credit to his sport, to his hockey club and to his profession of coaching. I'm proud to introduce to the Legislature today Mr Ted Nolan, the coach of the national Junior A hockey champions in Canada, the Memorial Cup champions, the Sault Ste Marie Greyhounds.

NATIVE AGENDA

NEWS

· MAY 1993 ·

The final step to conclude a historic agreement between Canada and Aboriginal peoples occured in Iqaluit, N.W.T. on May 25. Prime Minister Brian Mulroney, Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development Tom Siddon, Northwest Territories Government Leader Nellie Cournoyea, Tungavik Federation of Nunavut President James Eetoolook and other Inuit leaders formally signed the Nunavut Final Land Claim. The agreement settles the land claim, creates the Nunavut Territory and makes provision for its government. The agreement gives the Inuit title to 350,000 square kilometres of land and will provide $1.14 billion in compensation over 14 years. Other benefits in the agreement include wildlife harvesting rights, subsurface rights and participation on resource management boards.

Historic agreements on land claims and self-government were signed in Whitehorse on May 29. These agreements are designed to ensure the participation of Yukon First Nations in the political and economic development of the Yukon. The key agreement is The Council for Yukon Indians' Umbrella Final Agreement which sets out the terms for final land claim settlements and self-government agreements with each of the Yukon's 14 First Nations. Four First Nations also signed final settlements. Total compensation for the 14 First Nations will be $242.6 million and 41,439 square kilometres of land.

May 1993 - The Betsiamites Band Council undertook $3.5 million in construction to increase the capacity of the elementary school to 340 pupils. This work is being financed entirely by DIAND.

RECONSTRUCTION OF ACCESS ROADS TO ATIKAMEKW COMMUNITIES

May 17 - President Simon Awashish of the Council of the Atikamekw Nation, Quebec Minister for Native Affairs Christos Sirros and DIAND Minister of State Pierre H. Vincent signed an agreement providing for construction and repair work on the access roads to the three Atikamekw communities. Construction totalling $13 million over three years and affecting 180 kilometres of highway will be undertaken to make the roads safer and usable year-round. The cost is shared between Quebec (57%) and Ottawa (43%).

Improved access to Manouane, Obedjiwan and Weymontachie will promote economic development and will facilitate school and ambulance transportation.

Ontario

WATER AND SEWER SYSTEM FOR BEARSKIN LAKE

May 12 -- The Bearskin Lake First Nation opened a new water and sewer system. DIAND provided $7.5 million and the government of Ontario $3 million toward the construction costs. The system provides the core area of the community with treated water and sewage disposal. This investment will improve economic and social conditions for Bearskin Lake residents. Bearskin Lake is located near Sioux Lookout.

ABORIGINAL CADET CORPS RECEIVES AWARDS

May 29 -- The Hollow Water First Nation Royal Canadian Army Cadet Corps celebrated its first anniversary with an inspection of the corps. Chief Roderick Bushie and other dignitaries presented trophies and awards, while reviewing officer Lieutenant Colonel L.J. Gwiazda, Commanding Officer of the Fort Garry Horse Militia, carried out the inspection of the 35 young cadets. Located 190 km north of Winnipeg, Hollow Water First Nation is the only Native community in Manitoba with a youth cadet corps.

SWAN LAKE OPENS MULTI-PURPOSE BUILDING

May 21 -- Swan Lake First Nation officially opened a new multi-purpose building. The two-storey, handicapped-accessible complex houses band administration offices as well as medical and health facilities to serve the community of 400 people. DIAND contributed $200,000 of the total cost of $475,000 for the building. Swan Lake First Nation is located 175 km southwest of Winnipeg.

NUT LAKE/YELLOWQUILL SIGNS TLE AGREEMENT

May 4 -- Nut Lake/Yellowquill First Nation signed its Treaty Land Entitlement Settlement Agreement after a successful ratification vote by band members on April 7. The agreement will provide a cash settlement of $2,845,659.13, payable over 12 years, for the purchase of up to an additional 41,065 hectares of land. Yellowquill First Nation is one of the 25 bands which signed the 1992 Saskatchewan Treaty Land Entitlement Framework Agreement.

OKANESE FIRST NATION SIGNS TLE AGREEMENT

May 7 -- Okanese First Nation signed its Treaty Land Entitlement Settlement Agreement after a successful ratification vote by band members on March 31. The agreement will provide a cash settlement of $3,759,169.10, payable over 12 years, for the purchase of up to an additional 5,803 hectares of land.

POLICING AGREEMENT FOR SASKATCHEWAN FIRST NATIONS

May 18 -- A tripartite framework policing agreement covering 64 First Nations was signed by federal Solicitor General Doug Lewis, Saskatchewan Justice Minister Bob Mitchell and Chief Roland Crowe of the Federation of Saskatchewan Indian Nations. This agreement will enable First Nations to negotiate individual agreements to set policing priorities and will enhance RCMP accountability and services to these communities.

STARBLANKET FIRST NATION SIGNS TLE AGREEMENT

May 7 -- Starblanket First Nation signed its Treaty Land Entitlement Settlement Agreement after a successful ratification vote by band members on March 31. The agreement will provide a cash settlement of $2,945,855.85, payable over 12 years, for the purchase of up to an additional 4,547 hectares of land.

THUNDERCHILD FIRST NATION SIGNS TLE AGREEMENT

May 11 -- After a successful ratification vote by band members, Thunderchild First Nation and DIAND signed the band's Treaty Land Entitlement Settlement Agreement. The agreement will provide a cash settlement to the band for $31,676,854.61, payable over 12 years, for the purchase of up to an additional 48,894 hectares of land. Any remaining funds may be used for economic development.

FSIN AND FEDERAL GOVERNMENT SIGN WILDLIFE MOU

May 18 -- Chief Roland Crowe of the Federation of Saskatchewan Indian Nations (FSIN) and DIAND Minister Tom Siddon signed the Wildlife Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) in Saskatoon. The MOU records the understandings between the FSIN and DIAND regarding the principles upon which conservation, management and development of wildlife are based. The MOU is a companion document to the Memorandum of Understanding on Wildlife Management among the FSIN, the Province of Saskatchewan and wildlife organizations.

FSIN AND TREATY COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE LAUNCH INFORMATION CAMPAIGN

May 20 -- "Building Our Futures Together," a joint public relations initiative of both the Federation of Saskatchewan Indian Nations and the Treaty Commissioner's Office was launched in Saskatoon. The initiative will increase understanding of treaty land entitlement (TLE), the Saskatchewan TLE Framework Agreement and the settlement process among interested groups. Designed to increase support and understanding at the grassroots level through "townhall" type information meetings, it is aimed at generating co-operation and goodwill during the acquisition stage of entitlement settlement.

MOOSOMIN FIRST NATION SIGNS TLE AGREEMENT

May 27 -- After a successful ratification vote by band members, Moosomin First Nation and DIAND signed the band's Treaty Land Entitlement Settlement Agreement. The agreement will provide a cash settlement to the band for $19,757,439.82, payable over 12 years, for the purchase of up to an additional 30,496 hectares of land. Any remaining funds may be used for economic development.

Alberta

SADDLE LAKE BAND CELEBRATES OFFICIAL OPENING OF CULTURAL CENTRE

May 21 -- Members of the Saddle Lake Band celebrated the official opening of the Ayiwakes Cultural Centre. Deputy Prime Minister Don Mazankowski attended on behalf of Indian Affairs and Northern Development Minister Tom Siddon. Also participating were Ken Kirby, Regional Director General of DIAND's Alberta Region, and Saddle Lake Band Chief Eric Large and Council.

Construction on the $1.25 million facility began in June 1992 and was completed in March 1993. The Saddle Lake Band, located 250 km northeast of Edmonton, was assisted in this development by funding provided by DIAND, the Recreation Park and Wildlife Foundation, and the Province of Alberta.

British Columbia

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT WON'T ABANDON THIRD PARTIES

May 17 -- Indian Affairs and Northern Development Minister Tom Siddon said the federal government is not about to abandon third-party interests in coming negotiations to settle B.C. Aboriginal land claims. In a speech to the Vancouver Board of Trade, Minister Siddon encouraged B.C. business to begin including Indians in economic partnerships. He said that treaties, and the certainty they will bring, will reassure foreign investors and buyers and convince them there is long term security in British Columbia.

NISGA'A, PROVINCE AND CANADA HOLD OPEN HOUSE ON NISGA'A CLAIM

May 25 -- Members of the federal, provincial and Nisga'a negotiating teams travelled to Stewart to provide the community with information about the Nisga'a negotiations. Stewart is the only non-Aboriginal community within the Nisga'a claim. The negotiators met with the Chamber of Commerce and town council to present an overview of the treaty negotiation process and hear presentations by a number of community members. The team then held a public open house.

Yukon

CANADA AND YUKON SIGN OIL AND GAS ACCORD

May 28 -- The Canada/Yukon Oil and Gas Accord was signed in Dawson by Tom Siddon, Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, and Yukon Government Leader John Ostashek. The Accord transfers legislative authority and control over onshore oil and gas resources to the Yukon government. As well, the agreement provides that the governments will share in the management of the Beaufort resources and that the Yukon will share revenues from both on- and off-shore developments.

Northwest Territories

LOWER TRANSPORT COSTS REDUCE NWT PERISHABLE FOOD PRICES

When it comes to nutritious foods, people living in the Northwest Territories can now buy more for less as the result of funding provided under the Northern Air Stage Program. DIAND has been making annual payments of $15 million to Canada Post since 1991 to bring down the rates for mailing food. By July 1993, rates for shipping perishable food on Canada Post's commercial air stage network will be the same in the territories as in the provinces.

Arctic

ARCTIC ENVIRONMENTAL STRATEGY CONTAMINANTS PROGRAM FUNDS PROJECTS

May 18 -- Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development Tom Siddon announced funding for 68 projects under the Action on Contaminants Program. The program is part of the Arctic Environmental Strategy created under Canada's Green Plan. A total of $6.5 million will be provided for a range of studies seeking a solution to the problem of contaminants in the Arctic.

ABORIGINAL MOMEN'S

THE NEWS ABOUT EDCAW

EDCAW is a national organization, established in 1991, to provide Aboriginal women with better access and support in establishing their economic and business opportunities.

EDCAW's goals are:

- to provide Aboriginal women with better opportunities to improve their own and families lives;
- to increase access to the full range of government and nongovernment business and economic programs and resources;

EDCAW - Board of Directors

- to enable Aborginal women to form their own networks to support and help themselves and each other;
- to provide Aboriginal women with a practical means of consulting, on an ongoing basis, with governments.

WHY WAS EDCAW ESTABLISHED?

EDCAW began with a Plan of Action for supporting the economic development needs of Aboriginal women.

Aboriginal women identified their needs, this included training, information, support, access, and financing — basic needs faced by many women when they look into business or the work force.

You may have questions about bookkeeping, day care, support groups and organizations, or getting a loan or grant. EDCAW can help you to find the answers.

EDCAW's fundamental Philosophy is to "support and lobby for sustainable Aboriginal development in harmony with the environment," ***

We hear alot about sustainable development these days, and it often is not explained clearly — the key word here is "harmony", and the environment is more than just clean air, water, or soil — it is Mother Earth, including your home and community.

The Mission of EDCAW is to restore the quality of life of Aboriginal people through the increased participation of Aboriginal women in the Canadian and world economies.

WHERE IS EDCAW GOING?

This includes restoring balance to the lives and roles of Aboriginal women and men in their families and communities.

EDCAW has set out important Goals, Priorities, and Objectives for the next several years:

- a data base on Aboriginal women and economic development;
- networking;
- promotion of EDCAW and s Aboriginal women in business;
- skill development;
- partnerships;

- employment equity, increased participation of women;
- elimination of barriers;
- recognize Aboriginal women's contributions;

EDCAW is an excellent resource for current reports on economic development and Aboriginal women. For further information on videos, reports and resources available to Aboriginal women, please call the National Coordinator at 396 Cooper Street, Suite 204, Ottawa, Ontario K2P - 2H7. Tel: (613) 563-0998 Fax: (613) 563-1473.

Background

Entitled Denied Too Long, the report looks at five key areas of concernhealth, income, housing, community services, and quality of life. The report contains 35 recommendations, many directed at the Federal Government, some at the Government of Ontario.

Quoting from the report:

"Poverty is a fact of life for many First Nation seniors."

"In 1993 native people have the poorest health of any group in this province."

The report is a reflection of what the Advisory Council heard first hand from native seniors during meetings held throughout the province-- from Big Trout Lake First Nation in the Far North to Oneida of the Thames First Nation in the southwest.

The report also contains the findings of a questionnaire which asked Ontario's First Nations to comment on services available to their seniors. Sixty per cent of Ontario's First Nations took part.

Quoting from the report: "The (questionnaire) responses paint a harrowing picture of the lives of Ontario's First Nation seniors."

The Advisory Council has invited a number of native seniors and band officials, who took part in the consultation meetings, to the news conference:

Chief Stanley Sainnawap, Big Trout First Nation

Tom Medicine, Native Senior, Rainy River First Nation

Chief Al Day, Oneida of the Thames First Nation

Manson Ireland, Native Senior and Past Chief, Oneida of the Thames First Nation

Kay Taylor, Native Senior, Curve Lake First Nation

Don Maracle, Band Councillor, Bay of Quinte First Nation

Cindy Maracle, Home Support Co-ordinator, Bay of Quinte First Nation

Chief Eugene Manitowabi, Wikwemikong Unceded First Nation

Ron Wakegijig, Community Health Worker, Wikwemikong Unceded First Nation

Bonnie Cole, Lakisotha Nursing Home Manager, Akwesasne First Nation

Francis Jock, Assistant Director of Social Development, Akwesasne First Nation

The mandate of the Advisory Council is to provide advice to the Government of Ontario through the Minister of Citizenship on matters of concerns to Ontario's senior citizens. The Hon. Elaine Ziemba, Minister of Citizenship, will attend the news conference and make brief remarks.

The news conference will be chaired by Bill Hughes of Toronto, Chairman of the Advisory Council. Other members of the Council will be in attendance including Vice-Chairman Dr. Bill Arnup of Lindsay and Mrs. Verna Johnston, a native elder from the Chippewas of Nawash First Nation near Owen Sound.

The importance of these questionnaires is explained on their front page. We ask that if possible, you and your staff endeavor to see that all persons of Aboriginal origin, who have served in the Armed Forces of Canada or it's Allies, in peacetime or in time of conflict, as well as any surviving spouses or dependents are made aware of the questionnaires and encouraged to fill them in and return them to us as soon as possible using the Postage Paid Return Envelopes enclosed.

If you or your clients/members have any questions or require more questionnaires please feel free to call us Toll Free at 1-(800)-661-8387, and we'll get them to you immediately.

Thank you very much for your assistance and your support of our Veterans.

Respectfully yours,

Gavin Rhodes

ASSEMBLY OF FIRST NATIONS E.A.G.L.E. PROJECT

Effects on Aboriginals from the Great Lakes Environment

THE PROJECT

The E.A.G.L.E. Project is a community-based initiative to examine the effects of pollution in the Great Lakes Basin on native health and quality of life. This project combines the efforts of the Assembly of First Nations, Health and Welfare Canada and First Nation communities but is developed by Native people for Native people.

THE COMMUNITY

Phase 1 of this project found First Nation people in a high risk/high exposure category because:

- * most Native communities are situated on rivers or lakes, close to factories, mines and pulp and paper mills that dump their chemicals into the water;
- * the majority of the Native population is under the age of 30. This age group includes most of the women giving birth and their children, the people most affected by contaminants;
- * most Native communities eat a lot of fish and wild meat, which can contain high levels of environmental contaminants in their fat; and
- * many Native communities have inadequate water and sewage systems.

YOU

A major goal of this project is to increase awareness of the environment and environmental problems and identify problem areas within Native communities in the Great Lakes Basin. The best chance we have to make the safest choices concerning our environment is to be informed.

Cleaning Great Lakes Fish

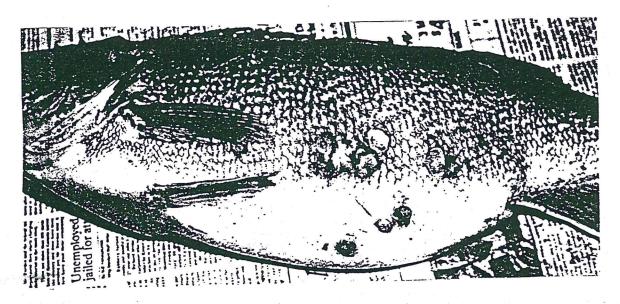

some Great Lakes fish are contaminated with low levels of toxic chemicals. You can ninimize your intake of these chemicals by properly cleaning, trimming, and skinning your fish. Follow the four steps.

Cooking does not destroy chemicals but the heat from cooking melts the fat in the fish, removing some chemicals. Do not use fish drippings in anything meant to be eaten. Discard fish drippings in the garbage.

TUMORS IN FISH

Occasionally, anglers catch fish with external growths, tumors, sores or other lesions. Such abnormalities generally result from viral or bacterial infections. Abnormalities in the liver or intestine are sometimes seen in course fish such as white suckers and brown bullheads [mudcats], and can be caused by parasites or tumors. Concern about the potential effects of these diseases on the fish themselves and the possible role of pollution in causing tumors in some course fish has prompted ongoing investigation into these abnormalities. Growths on game fish caused by viruses include lymphocystis, dermal sarcoma and lymphosarcoma.

Lymphocystis, a viral disease affecting walleye [pickerel] and perch, is common throughout Canada. Viruses infect the fish's skin through contact with infected fish during the spring spawning run, forming pale of white cauliflower-like growths. Lymphocystis does not kill affected fish. Tagging studies have shown that these fish can lose the growths by the following spring.

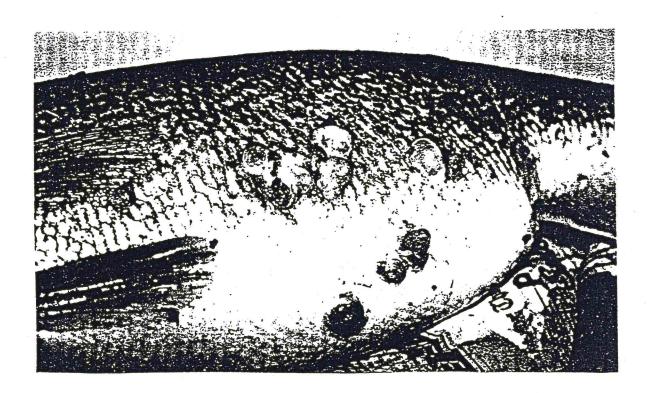

Dermal sarcoma, another viral disease affecting walleye, is caused by viruses which infect cells and cause growths just under the skin. These growths can be removed by skinning the fish.

Lymphosarcoma is a viral disease affecting muskellunge and northern pike. This virus is transmitted at spawning, but the lesions caused by it can vary depending on the season and stage of the disease. In the spring, affected fish have thick white patches on their skin from which viruses are shed and these in turn infect other fish. Later in the year these patches may heal, forming blotchy red sores or even normal skin. The virus causing lymphosarcoma infects the white blood cells of the fish and can spread throughout the body during the summer or over several years. This disease can kill infected fish.

Coarse fish in various parts of the Great Lakes have been found to have lip and skin growths similar to human warts in appearance. Growths on coarse fish kept in the laboratory often disappear and new ones develop very quickly, suggesting that viruses likely cause these tumors.

Studies on Canadian and American areas of the Great Lakes have found an increased rate of lip and skin growths on coarse fish captured in polluted areas; in some extremely polluted areas liver and intestinal tumors have been found in these fish. Studies suggest that pollution may cause the liver tumors and may indirectly cause skin growths - warmer water often found in polluted areas attracts larger numbers of fish, thus increasing their risk of becoming infected with viruses. Considerable research, much of it being conducted or funded by the Ontario and Canadian governments, is being undertaken to determine whether pollution is a cause of these tumors.

While the appearance of viral or bacterial infections in fish is unsightly, there is no known health risk from consuming an infected fish that meets the consumption guidelines. However, caution is advised.

THE THUNDER PEOPLE

This is a Legend.

When our people still lived in longhouses, long ago, it was a time when all of the people where afraid of thunder storms. Every time it started to thunder everyone would run for cover.

One day a Mother, Father and Daughter were out tending to their garden when it started thundering and they all began to run for the shelter of a near by cave. The Mother and Father were closer to the cave than the Daughter was, so they got there first. They turned around expecting their Daughter to be there behind them, but she wasn't. She was farther out in the field than they thought and she was still running toward the cave when it started to lightening. The lightening was getting closer and closer to the Daughter as she ran and her Mother and Father were yelling to her to hurry. Just as the Daughter was about to reach the cave, the loudest crack of thunder they had ever heard rang out and the bright flash of lightening filled their eyes. When the Mother and Father opened their eyes again, their daughter was gone. She had just disappeared and as quickly as the storm came up, it went away. The Mother and Father were very sad that their Daughter was gone, but they knew where she was. The People called "The Thunderers" had taken her. An ancient legend said that they had been know to have taken Humans to live amongst them before. It was said that the Thunderers were a race of fun-loving small People who dwelt in the clouds whose job it was to bring rain, lightening and thunder for the Humans well-being.

When lightening struck the Daughter she was surrounded by a thick blanket of fog and could feel herself travelling upward at the speed of light. As the fog cleared, after the Daughter had stopped moving, she saw a small young man standing in front of her. He spoke to her very kindly and told her that for some time he had noticed her when they passed by. He told her that he had fallen in love with her and he wanted to meet her, that was the reason why she was there. The Daughter missed her parents very much but decided to stay with the Thunderers because she had fallen in love with the young man as well.

One year had gone by and the young woman was now expecting a child of her own. The Father of the young man who had brought the young woman to the Thunderers told the young man that he should send the young woman back to the Humans to have the child. The Father felt that the child should grow up with Human children. It is the custom that the children grow up in and with their clan and since a child's clan is determined by his/her Mother's clan, that is where the child should be. With much sadness the young couple had to part from each other. After the young woman was ready, the Thuderers sent a message with her to tell the other Humans. It was to tell them that the Thunderers would never take another Human again because they could never be totally happy amongst the clouds. With that message the young man sent her back to the same spot where he took her from.

On Mother Earth, the Daughter's parents were tending the garden when a sudden thunder storm came up. They ran for the cover of the near by cave and looked out over the garden remembering the day their Daughter disappeared. The lightening was hitting the ground coming right up to the front of the cave, then a loud crack of thunder sounded, like the one on the day of their Daughter's disappearance. Then a bright flash of lightening hit the ground right in front of them, also the same as the day their Daughter disappeared, but when they opened their eyes they saw their Daughter standing in front of them. The parents couldn't believe that their Daughter had returned. They were so happy she was back and expecting a child as well.

It wasn't long before the young woman gave birth to a baby boy. Even as a baby the boy would get very excited and laugh when a thunder storm went by their village. As the boy got older he didn't grow very tall but he was always the happiest person in the village. He would run outside to laugh and play in the rain when a thunder storm came. As the boy played, the lightening would hit the ground all around him, but would never hit him.

They say that the boy would run outside when a thunder storm came by because he knew his Father had come to visit him for a short time.

Every once in a while there is a child born who doesn't grow very big, but is very fun-loving. The Elders tell us that these People are direct descendants of the Thunderers who are now related to the Humans.

The Elders tell us that we should never fear a thunder storm again because the Thunderers will not let lightening strike one of their relatives.

This is what I can remember.
