via fax 613-396-3627

Dear Ken:

My name is Hersh Spiegelman. I'm a practising Chartered Accountant living near Toronto and have been in business for 15 years preparing financial statements and tax returns.

I'm contacting you because of the recent decision by the Supreme Court of Canada in the Glen Williams case. This case decided that unemployment insurance benefits received by Reserve Indians were not subject to income tax in certain situations:

Due to this case Reserve Indians in the future should find their U.I. benefits noticeably larger since income tax will no longer be withheld.

THIS DECISION ALSO MEANS THAT those individuals who had received U.I. benefits in the past (where the tax was already deducted and withheld) can now refile their personal income tax returns all the way back to 1985 and be entitled to receive a refund of all taxes withheld. The government will also pay you interest back to 1985. In other words even if one has already filed a personal tax return any time between 1985 and 1991 and received a refund at that time, YOU MAY REFILE AGAIN AND POSSIBLY RECEIVE A LARGER REFUND.

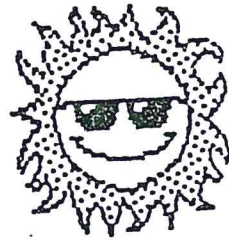

I represent an income tax recovery company, and we wish to offer our services to assist in refiling tax returns for everyone who might be affected on your Reserve. We have had a significant amount of experience in the income tax field and although refiling can be a technically complex exercise, we are confident we can handle it quickly and efficiently.

Please review the contents of this letter carefully. I would be more than happy to further discuss this situation and our involvement in handling the tax refiling. I look forward to your call.

Yours Truly

Hersh Spiegelman C.A.

Summer Student Introductions!

This is brief introduction of the student study team that will be helping to study the Big Marsh (Mud Creek Marsh). The purpose of the marsh study is to determine the present condition of the marsh as well as determining possible ways by which the marsh may be improved. This may include management methods so that an increase of fish and wildlife could result.

The Study team will be assisting with a physical study of the marsh which will involve assessing what types of plants, birds and fish are in the marsh. It will also include taking soil samples and water quality samples. We will also be conducting a door-to-door survey of the territory residents. This survey will help in providing a historical background of the marsh, and will greatly assist in determining the steps that should be taken to manage the marsh.

The Members of the Survey Team are as follows, along with a brief description:

My name is Bill Hayes and I am acting as the supervisor for the Big Marsh Study. In the fall I will be going back for my 2nd Year at Queen's University. I am studying Physical Geography. Bill Hayes.

My name is Bob Thomas. I'm a study technician for the Big Marsh Project. I have just completed my first year of Law & Security at Mohawk College in Hamilton. I also enjoy playing baseball. Bob Thomas

My name is Kalvin Brant and I have lived on the Reserve most of my life. I am going to be one of the study Technicians for the Big Marsh Project. I have just recently completed my First year of Law and Security at Loyalist College. My favourite hobby is playing softball. I play now in the two leagues on the reserve, Mens and Mixed.

Kalvin Brant

We are looking forward to working with all of those in the community.

BREAST SELF-EXAMINATION

Apparently 80% of all breast cancers diagnosed clinically were found by the woman herself - either by practicing B.S.E. (breast self-examination) or by accident.

Regular B.S.E. should detect cancers earlier, and earlier detection results in a greater chance of cure and easier treatment.

No one knows your body better than you, therefore, regular examinations done by yourself will identify any irregularities or changes that you could report to your family physician for further diagnosis.

The really good news is that over 80% of breast lumps are not cancer, but ONLY YOUR PHYSICIAN CAN CHECK THEM OUT.

*****

Come to the Thayendanege Health Centre on June 22, 1992 at 7:00 p.m. to learn the proper techniques.

Susan McGlade from the Ontario Breast Screening Clinic in Kingston will be giving instruction on techniques and other pertinent information.

We look forward to seeing you then!

DIABETES SUPPORT GROUP

The Thayendanege Health Centre would like to start a Support Group on the Tyendinaga Territory for people with Diabetes and their families.

The first meeting will be held at the Thayendanege Health Centre on Wednesday, June 17th. 1992 at 7:00 p.m.

If you would like more information about our Goals and Objectives for the Diabetes Support Group please contact the Thayendanege Health Centre at 967-3603.

The Community Health Nurse, Helen Breadman will be available to answer any questions. There will also be a short film presentation.

Refreshments will also be served.

Come on out and help us to get the Diabetic Support Group going and share your ideas with us.

The Perils of Packaging

The production, use, and disposal of the materials we use to wrap our foods, clothes, and other consumer goods contribute to many environmental problems, from litter through waste disposal to acid rain.

The more expensive the item, the more layers of wrapping. Witness that expensive box of chocolates or the pricey mushrooms in a plastic box wrapped in plastic. Few products need more than one layer of packaging, almost none need more than two layers. Yet a common sight in supermarkets is two or four tomatoes sitting in a cardboard box and surrounded by plastic wrap.

Traditional packing materials have given way to foamed plastics and aluminum; plastic wrappers and the plastic rings on six-packs (banned in many U.S. states) strangle and suffocate birds and marine animals. Although paper and cardboard eventually break down as waste, they're rarely made from recycled material. In a year each of us might use two trees' worth of packaging material.

Even juice boxes, valued because they're light and store neatly without wasting space (hence saving fuel used in transportation), are environment-unfriendly because they're not being recycled. But instead of buying one large recyclable glass container of juice, we opt for boxes made from plastic wrap, cardboard, and foil, then packaged in sixes wrapped in more plastic. And biodegradable and photodegradable plastics aren't a solution either; many environmentalists feel these will only leave us with plastic dust, the environmental impact of which isn't known.

Consumers do have a say in packaging. Their reaction, for example, removed a new plastic soft-drink can from the market in the U.S. Some U.S. states are imposing waste taxes on packaging materials that can't be recycled, which are added to the price of products like toothpaste. There's also a shopping bag tax: bring your own bag to the store (and get a rebate, in some places) or pay for a new one.

A British borough council has a campaign called Don't Choose What You Can't Reuse. This won't do the whole job; reuse must be combined with recycling and — most important — reduced consumption. But every bit counts. Here are some measures you can take that will help considerably.

- Use your municipality's Blue Box recycling program, if it has one, for cans, bottles, and acceptable plastics.
- Choose returnable bottles.
- Don't litter anywhere with anything.
- Cut down on the amount of plastic and foam packaging you bring home.
- Buy products made from recycled materials; if they're not available, ask why.
- Reuse plastic bags when you can't avoid buying foods in them. For example, plastic milk bags are excellent for storing foods.

Degradable Plastics

Many Canadians are concerned about the amount of plastic we add to our garbage — 16 to 18 kg per person per year. We know those plastics will pile up over the centuries as a lasting monument to our throwaway society. All of us have seen, too, the many plastic items that aren't put out in the garbage; they litter our roadsides, parks, and campgrounds. And so the new biodegradable and photodegradable plastic bags seem on the surface to be very beneficial. But we may have to think again about these wonder products.

Biodegradable plastics are made by including cornstarch with the polyethylene in the manufacturing process. When the plastic item is discarded, the cornstarch is eaten by bacteria, which causes the polyethylene to break down into pieces too small to see. Another chemical added during manufacture helps provide oxygen to the bacteria, which also aids in the decomposition of the plastic.

Photodegradable plastics are used in bags and in the plastic rings used to hold six-packs of cans together. In this case, a light-sensitive additive is mixed with the plastic to help break the product down into small particles in the presence of sunlight. This is important environmentally not only because of the despoiling of nature by litter, but also because seabirds often choke or strangle on plastics.

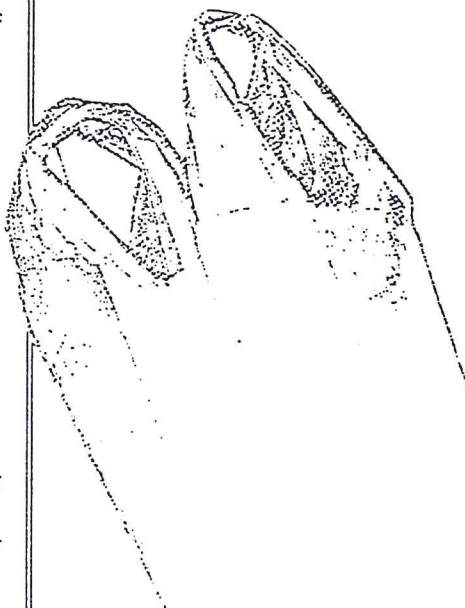

Plastics that will degrade in a few years, or even a few months, seem to be promising solutions. However, let's analyze two of our plastic packaging materials.

Paper vs. Plastic Bags

There's been a lot of argument over who is really the better environmental citizen. Paper makers say their industry is based on a renewable resource, unlike the petroleum-based plastics industry. Plastic manufacturers insist that more air and water pollution is generated and more energy consumed making a paper bag than a plastic bag. And although paper is biodegradable and can be composted, it can take decades to decompose when buried deep in a modern landfill site. Of course, plastic bags take even longer to break down — they will be with us for centuries. Neither paper nor plastic shopping bags are currently recycled to any great extent.

Don't Use Either!

Instead of arguing which is the lesser of two evils, the Green Consumer leaves the bag behind in favour of a reusable tote bag. If you need to take a bag, choose one you can recycle or reuse later.

Greetings!

With the recent success of the Peacemakers Drum at the sing held at Six Nations, we were given the opportunity and honour of hosting a Sing in Mid-November.

There is much excitement in hosting a Sing on the Territory of the Peacemaker. A Sing is a time for Iroquois people throughout the Confederacy to come together in song, dance and feast.

There will be many Singing Societies gathering to sing all original Woman's Dance Songs. The songs must be original to the respective societies, be seven verses long and each verse is to be sung twice.

Once the original songs are finished there is more festivities to come. There will be a large social dance following a feast.

With the coming of our brothers and sisters from other Nations, the Peacemakers Drum and the Longhouse people of the Mohawk Nation will be working hard raising funds and co-ordinating plans for a smooth gathering.

On THURSDAY, JUNE 25 AT 5:30 P.M., the Tyendinaga Mohawk Singing Society will begin to host a series of benefit dinners and socials at the Community Centre as a fund raising event in order that we may sponsor Tyendinaga's First Confederacy Sing.

Everyone is invited and welcome to attend!

BAHA"U'LLAH

*On the twenty-ninth of May, nineteen ninety-two
Baha'is from around the planet earth,
Commemorated the centennial of the passing
Of the Greatest of All Birth.*

*When He was born, the whole universe sang
Reverberations felt far and near,
The heavens rejoiced, the concourse on high
Stood witness, to what we were to hear.*

*A descendant of Katura
Exiled to and fro,
This distinguished Prisoner, was taken to the Holy Land
Many years ago.*

*From this prison "The Glory of God"
The "Most Ancient of All Days"
Began to teach humanity
The progressive revelation of God's ways.*

*To the Hindu, He was Krishna
To the Buddhist, He was the Fifth
To Israel, the "Lord of Hosts" come down
He will dissolve the rift.*

*To Christendom, He was Christ's return
"In the Glory of the Father".
He is the New Name we espouse
In this humanity's greatest hour.*

*To Shi"ah Islam, the return of Ima'm Husayn
To Sunni, the decent of the Spirit (Jesus Christ)
To the Native, He is none other than
The "Great Light" from the East.*

*To each of us He brings
The Fulfilment of our Faith
He is "The Proclaimer of the coming of age
Of the entire human race.*

*In His most mighty revelation
The Holy Books have been "unsealed"
Clear as the light from the noonday sun
The Sacred Scriptures stand revealed.*
