Mr. Don Maracle
Band Councillor
Senior Citizen Portfolio
Tyendinaga Mohawk Council
Administration Office
R.R. #1, Desoronto,
Ontario, K0K 1X0

Dear Mr. Maracle:

After a year of studying the needs of Ontario's on-reserve seniors, the Ontario Advisory Council on Senior Citizens has identified housing as an area of great concern.

In Council's soon-to-be-released report Denied Too Long, a bleak picture is painted of Ontario's on-reserve housing as poorly constructed often without insulation, running water, indoor plumbing or proper sewage.

Council's findings reinforce a December 1992 report of the Federal Standing Committee on Aboriginal Affairs which judged 70 per cent of housing on Ontario reserves as "substandard".

For seniors living on fixed pension incomes, heating bills for poorly constructed houses is a major drain on their finances. Seniors are also hard pressed to afford badly needed repairs to their homes.

Reserve housing is typically very small with only 672 square feet of living space for a family of four. To make matters worse there is a chronic shortage of housing on most First Nation communities resulting in many cases of severe overcrowding.

Time and time again studies have linked poor and overcrowded housing with health problems. For native seniors the effects of substandard housing can be acute. Dampness and cold add to their pain of arthritis. Respiratory problems are aggravated by woodburning stoves. Problems with sanitation lead to a growth in airborne and parasitic diseases. Overcrowding is often seen as factor adding to the spread of diseases such as tuberculosis.

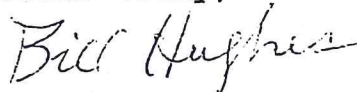

Council has met with native seniors throughout the province including a meeting with seniors and service providers from the Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte First Nation. Council applauds the community's efforts to upgrade the housing stock on the reserve.

Council also acknowledges the valuable training component of this project which employs community members in the renovation work.

For seniors it means homes without leaky roofs, malfunctioning furnaces and hazardous wiring. For the construction workers it means hands on experience.

Council congratulates this community for its initiative and concern on behalf of its senior citizens and encourages service clubs, federal and provincial ministries, housing authorities, and community groups to provide what support they can to ensure the continuation of this project.

Yours truly,

Bill Hughes

R. R. # 1

Dear Chief Hill

I herewith submit my resignation as Councillor for the Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte for the following reasons.

1. Lack of control of Council meetings by their Chairman. In the past it has been my observation that when a person or persons are attending Council meetings they are allowed to continue speaking at length. This has the unfortunate result of extending Council meetings much beyond their required length.
2. Lack of other Council support. When a Councillor is verbally attacked during a Council meeting by a community member, it should be the duty of other Council members to show support and act as a unified group.
3. Harrassment by community members. I was elected to Council for a term of only two years. My business and my family will still be a part of my life well after that term is served and I have no need or desire to submit myself, my family or my business to public ridicule.

Yours sincerely

ONTARIO MAINTAINS SUPPORT FOR ABORIGINAL PROGRAMS

The Government of Ontario moved quickly to assure Aboriginal people that Ontario's Expenditure Control Plan supports their efforts to achieve fairness and economic opportunity.

Senior officials hit the phones as soon as the plan was announced to explain to Aboriginal leaders that Ontario will maintain its programs for Aboriginal people, as well as capital spending for projects that improve health, safety and environmental conditions on Aboriginal communities.

The Expenditure Control Plan protects Ontarians who are least able to adjust to tough economic times. That includes many Aboriginal communities. Though Ontario's plan will maintain support for Aboriginal programs, senior officials believe that Aboriginal communities should anticipate making some adjustments.

"Aboriginal people may be affected by reductions in general programs like other Ontarians, since many Aboriginal people use the same educational, health and social services," said Murray Coolican, Ontario's Deputy Minister for Native Affairs.

Mr. Coolican said that he's also advising Aboriginal leaders about the need for realistic expectations because $3 million has been cut from the 1993/1994 operating budget of the Ontario Native Affairs Secretariat.

"We are going to continue to deliver on projects like land claim and self-government negotiations, but we may not be able to take on new projects until we've completed the ones that are now underway," Mr. Coolican said.

Mr. Coolican said that the Secretariat will adjust to the reduction in its budget through increased organizational efficiencies and reductions in transfer funds for special Aboriginal projects. Examples include funding for oral history projects and computerized mapping systems.

UPCOMING MEETINGS

MEETING

A meeting to be held at the Elders Lodge, in the common room, for all Elders and Disabled band members of Tyendinaga. One thing we have accomplished so far is to provide rides for some of the Elders and Disabled members of Tyendinaga. The reason I say some is because we are the only people heard from so far. If you are an Elder or Disabled person and require a ride to Doctors, Dentist, or other health related appointments, and are in need of a ride, come to the meetings and let us know. We meet every first Monday of the month. The next meeting will be Monday June 7 at 7:pm. If you cannot make it ask a family member to attend for you. See you at the meeting. Take care your friend

Come to the library JUNE 14 AT 7:00 P.M.

Trish Rae will be speaking on researching your Family Tree and history of Tyendinaga.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

May 26, 1993

We are writing at this time to the Community of Tyendinaga in support of a company who appear to be at the mercy of a group of individuals who would wish to see their business dissolve.

B & J Pole Line was established in 1977 through the hard work and effort of its two owners, Bud & Jeff Maracle. Throughout the years they have provided employment to an average of fifteen Reserve residents each year. Some of their employees have been with them for almost the entire time. They have always been fair in their business dealings and have always guaranteed their work.

The majority of their pole line work has been for Bell Telephone and Ontario Hydro. As everyone is aware both of those companies have been experiencing financial problems which they have passed on to the consumer in price increases. They have also begun to do a very large portion of their pole and anchor work themselves as another attempt to stay solvent. All of this is due to the recession that Canada has been experiencing.

B & J were in the position of having to let their employees go unless they diversified. They found that diversification in 1990 in construction work. In the past three years they have established themselves in the Territory as a reliable, conscientious and hard working excavating company. There are dozens of individuals on the Reserve who have enjoyed the results of their labours. Although they have been, during the 1991 and 1992 seasons the largest Native company in the area in the construction field, they did not take any advantage in their pricing policies. They have always operated their business with integrity and fair play.

As there are now other individuals established in the construction business on the Reserve, the Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte Band Council have introduced a tender system for their jobs. B & J have been happy to submit tenders as required by due dates and time. They have been awarded a few and they have lost a few. This is good business for the Band and a practice that B & J are glad to oblige. Contrary to some beliefs Bud Maracle has excluded himself from both the bidding and awarding of all of these contracts. There has never been a "conflict of interest on his part."

It is very unfortunate that personal feelings must trespass onto good business sense. We want the Territory to know and to remember that B & J are decent, hard working individuals who are providing work to a great number of people. Their product has been and will continue to be an excellent one- one that can be depended upon. We urge other members of this community to not listen to rumour and innuendo and think only of who can give the best value and service. SIGNED The current employees of B & J in support of our bosses and under no duress to sign this letter.

Every day we learn about the effects of society's lifestyle on our environment. Much is being done, however, by Canadians from all walks of life to restore and protect our water, land, and air.

In recognition of this commitment, Environment Canada will again present Environmental Achievement Awards in 1993. These awards pay tribute to individuals, organizations, companies and communities who have made an outstanding contribution to a cleaner and healthier environment.

I invite you to review the enclosed material and to submit a nomination by June 30, 1993 to:

Canada

Canada's Green Plan is about partnership: the partnership for Canadians in every sector of society to work co-operatively toward the common goal of a better, healthier environment.

Environmental Achievement Awards
 celebrate that co-operation. This year's awards honour the efforts and commitment of individuals and organizations from all walks of life who work, through diverse but mutually reinforcing actions, to protect and restore our environment.

This year's awards will be presented during National Environment Week, June 5-12, 1993. Nominations are invited in a wide range of categories. People and organizations nominated in previous years, and not chosen as award-winners, may be nominated again. An independent advisory body will select the winners.

Please join us in recognizing the men and women who make Canada—and the world—a better place in which to live.

Shirley Browne, Minister of State (Environment)

Categories

Environmental Achievement Awards will be presented in six categories:

Non-profit Organization

This award is for a non-government, non-profit group that has made an outstanding contribution to the protection of Canada's environment. The contribution may be a long-term, ongoing effort or a single, recent accomplishment. It may be the form of increased public awareness or the promoting of a particular use.

Eligibility: Any Canadian organization, or Canadian branch of an international organization, that is a non-government, non-profit group and that (a) focuses on conservation, wildlife, energy issues, toxic chemicals, or any other concern central to improved environmental quality, or (b) has developed a program that deals with an environment-related topic.

The 1992 award-winner was the Environmental Youth Alliance for its role in fostering environmental awareness and involvement among young Canadians.

2. Outstanding Communications for Environmental Awareness

This award is for an author, journalist, broadcaster or film-maker who is a Canadian resident and whose work has significantly broadened Canadians' awareness of environmental issues. The award-winner will have contributed to increased knowledge, concern, commitment and/or hope for the environment.

Eligibility: This category is open to a professional communicator in any medium.

The 1992 award-winner was Tom Davey of Aurora, Ontario, a journalist and speaker on environmental issues, acclaimed in Canada and abroad.

3. Corporate Environmental Leadership

This award recognizes innovative and/or exemplary environmental conduct by a Canadian corporation, institution or association—industrial or other. The winner will have shown that environmental concerns can be reflected in economic decisions, as urged by the World Commission on Environment and Development, and by Canada's Task Force on Environment and Economy.

Eligibility: The nominee must be a corporate entity (not a municipally or charitable organization). Crown corporations are also eligible. The nomination should identify how the company in question has protected the environment or conserved natural resources.

The 1992 award-winner was S.C. Johnson Wax for demonstrating environmental responsibility in the manufacture and packaging of its products, and in its internal operations.

4. Lifetime Achievement

This award is given to an individual Canadian whose lifetime dedication to the environment is a source of inspiration.

Eligibility: Any individual Canadian. The nomination should describe the person's work, focusing on his or her motivation and scope of activity. Both successes and failures should be cited.

The 1992 award-winner was Dr. Ian McTaggart-Cowan of Victoria, British Columbia, for his major contributions to environmental understanding.

5. Environmental Leadership by a Municipality

This award recognizes an innovative and/or exemplary environmental policy, project or activity of a municipality.

Eligibility: Any Canadian regional government or municipality. The nomination should outline the type of policy, project or activity and identify the benefits to the environment.

The 1992 award-winner was the City of Richmond, British Columbia, for implementing environmental programs in its own operations and for city residents.

6. Environmental Science Fair Project

Environment Canada works with the Youth Science Foundation to select the best environment-related science fair project across the country. Nominations are, therefore, not required for this category.

The 1992 award-winner was Kim Nguyen of Prince Rupert, British Columbia, for a study of the environmental impact of phosphate-free detergents.

Deadline for Submitting Nominations

Nominations must be postmarked on or before February 15, 1993.

An acknowledgment will be sent to everyone who submits a nomination form.

Dear Co-op Supporter:

You may have already demonstrated by your investment in Quinte District Co-operative Inc. that you want a co-operative to remain in your community.

Unfortunately, not enough money was raised in the area to support the business plan of Quinte District Co-op. Investors will soon receive back their investments.

But there is still something that can be done to keep your area co-operatives open.

We invite you to invest in another co-operative. This spring, Golden Triangle Co-operative Inc., which encompasses co-operatives from Eganville to Finch to Gananoque, will run the businesses formerly to become Quinte District Co-operative: Kingston, Picton and Napanee Co-ops.

The potential also exists for Picton, Napanee, and Kingston Co-op stores to become part of the Golden Triangle Co-operative. Co-op customers will have pride of ownership and local control while benefiting from the economic clout of the larger co-operative.

As a member and an investor in the co-operative, you'll preserve the Co-op services and product choice you've valued. In addition, you will maintain a co-operative in your community to keep prices fair and services progressive.

Your investment will be held In Trust, pending the closing of the sale of Picton, Napanee and Kingston Co-ops to Golden Triangle Co-operative Inc. Your support is needed. Golden Triangle Co-operative Directors and the counsellors at Picton, Napanee and Kingston Co-ops (Quinte District Co-operative Inc.) need to see that you want your co-operatives to continue.

We believe you do.

To become a member of Golden Triangle Co-operative Inc., you can pledge to purchase three common shares of $100 each in the Golden Triangle Co-operative. You can also invest in six per cent cumulative and non-voting preference shares of $100 each.

There is little time to raise the $300,000 needed to support the continuance of Napanee, Picton and Kingston Co-ops as part of the Golden Triangle Co-operative Inc. Please invest now.

For more information, contact your local co-op representative or visit your co-op store.

Co-operatively yours,

Larry Wannamaker

WORDS THAT COUNT WOMEN ~~OUT~~ IN

You've seen it on
CBC, CITY-TV, GLOBAL and CTV.
You've heard it discussed on dozens of radio stations...even by those who've never read it!

The booklet that's getting all the attention is
"Words that Count Women Out/In."

The Toronto Star columnist, Michele Landsberg calls it
"a light-hearted, undogmatic and excellent guide to inclusive language."

Rarely have 35 modest little pages caused such a publishing sensation.

"Words that Count Women Out/In" speaks to the "why" of inclusive language; arguments for and against it; some sticky wickets and how to dodge them. It contains a bibliography, a list of breakthroughs in the brief history of bias-free language and personal anecdotes and experiences of those who are committed to expressing themselves in a way that includes both genders. But most of all, it has hundreds of useful WORDS, EXPRESSIONS and WORD SOLUTIONS.

If you work with words, whether it be in a business, a library, a school or a government office, don't miss out on this useful resource. It belongs on your desk, alongside your dictionary and thesaurus.

PRESS RELEASE

On June 8th, 1993 at 8PM, at the Tyendinaga Community Centre, York Road, Tyendinaga Mohawk Territory, CJLX-FM and A Voice for The First Nations, along with the Lil' Red Radio Committee present a concert celebrating "1993, THE YEAR OF THE INDIGENOUS PEOPLE" with the musical groups KANATAN ASKI and PURA FE AND SONI, a marriage of Native contemporary music from North and South America. Entitled, 'When The Condor Meets the Eagle', this Canadian tour promotes their new CD release of the same title.

KANATAN ASKI (Cree for clean water) is a dynamic group of musicians that specializes in traditional and contemporary music of the Andees of Ecuador. With the use of drums, pan-pipes rhythms, string instruments, a bass and saxophone, KANATAN ASKI is constantly weaving exciting new sounds to create a cultural chain with Native Nations of this country. This tour includes three musicians directly from Ecuador.

The music of PURA FE AND SONI (known for their a cappella singing) finds its origins in the drums and rattles of Native people and the scat of jazz and the blues. These classically trained voices are two Native women based in New York City whose music unites artists from different Indian communities. Together with KANATAN ASKI, PURA FE AND SONI create a new generation of Native contemporary music.

Our first act will welcome our guests to the territory, the PEACEMAKER'S DRUM from Tyendinaga.

The Lil' Red Radio Committee is a group of Indigenous people and Friends who are committed to providing a voice for the Native community through broadcasting in the Greater Kingston area. The concert, When the Condor Meets the Eagle, marks the first event for the Lil' Red Radio Committee. Tickets will be on sale in Kingston at the Grand Theatre box office, in Belleville at Peace Tree Technologies at the Belleville Plaza; in Tyendinaga at the Tyendinaga band office, 396-3424; Maracle's Music, and Mrs. Herb's Restaurant. For more information about our committee, or the event, please contact:

FOR THE FIRST
NATIVE JOURNALISTS CONFERENCE
SIX NATIONS
JUNE 25, 26, 27, 1993

OHSWEKEN: The deadline is quickly approaching for the first Native Journalists Association's national conference being held at the Brant Park Inn, in Brantford, and on the Six Nations Indian Reserve.

It's a first and we want you to be part of it.

A year ago a handful of native journalists got together and decided to form the Native Journalists Association and since then we have been diligently working towards the first national conference of native media communicators to ever be held in Canadian history.

And now it's almost upon us.

Who are we? We are native communicators in mainstream media, print, radio and T.V., from native community radio, native community T.V., and newspapers.

We draw our membership from editors and writers of native organization's newsletters and publications and native communicators working in public relations and government media relations roles.

We are native communicators whether we are on the airwaves in Toronto, Edmonton, Calgary, Halifax or Vancouver, or in our native communities. We come from Iqualuit, Davis Inlet, Kahnawake, Moosefactory, Ohsweken, James Bay and native communities across the country. We are involving all native communications societies, newspapers, newsletters and programmers.

We are all getting together for the first time to talk shop. To talk about how we do our jobs, how we can do them better and how we can help each other.

Some topics under discussion:

Journalism vs activism- panel discussion including reps from Canestake who were underfire during the Oka crisis.

Mainstream media-working in it, should we be in it, Ron Roberts CBC Radio LaRonge, Richard Wagamese, former Calgary Herald Columnist, Lynda Powless CBC Radio Toronto.

Community Radio-panel discussion what is it, where is it going, how to get there-NACS Ray Fox, Wawatay Native Communications Society member, Lynda Powless, SONICS board member and veteran journalist, NJA members

Native men and women- healing the firts Sandy Funk, Winnipeg who squared off with Manitoba Chiefs over child abuse, NJA board member Joesph Fourre, Winnipeg, Kahnawake editor/publisher Eastern Door, Kenneth Deer and K103 station manager, Lori Jacobs.

And of course the Native Women's Journalist Caucus will be meeting.

It's a conference you won't want to miss. If you are involved in native communications you should be here. Talk to your peers, network, let's set a direction for the native communications industry
