Allen Announces Native Postsecondary Education and Training Strategy

The Ontario government will provide $3.1 million this year to initiate a strategy aimed at removing barriers within the postsecondary education system that limit the educational and training achievements of Native students, Colleges and Universities Minister Richard Allen announced today.

The strategy is designed to encourage postsecondary institutions to work in partnership with Native communities to increase their role in decision making, program development, and developing admissions criteria. It will also provide Native organizations with funding to cover costs associated with their involvement in the implementation of the strategy.

"We want to increase the participation and completion rates of Native people in college and university programs," said Dr. Allen. "To accomplish this our postsecondary institutions must work together with Native organizations to increase their sensitivity to Native culture and issues and increase the extent of participation of Native people in decisions affecting Native postsecondary education."

The $3.1 million announced today will be used to establish the following initiatives:

- a Native Support Services Core Fund to increase the number of native counsellors employed by postsecondary institutions;
- a special Projects Fund to support the development of native college and university curricula which reflect the cultural, social and economic needs of Native people including joint college and university initiatives in the area of Native programs; and, a Supplementary Grant Fund to provide colleges and universities with additional funding for each full-time student enrolled in designated Native programs.

The strategy also calls for the establishment of a Native Education Council to ensure that there is ongoing Native community involvement regarding postsecondary matters. The Council will be comprised of representatives from Native organizations involved in the development of the strategy. The Council will advise the Minister of Colleges and Universities on all aspects of Native postsecondary education and will work with the ministry in the implementation of the Native Postsecondary Education and Training Strategy.

In addition, a Proposal Selection Committee will be established to help the ministry review and recommend programs and proposals for funding under the new strategy. The committee will include representatives of the ministry, Ontario Native organizations, the Council of Regents, and the Ontario Council on University Affairs, as well as Ontario colleges and universities.

Dr. Allen said that there is a real connection between the social infrastructure and the economy and that social programs give people the tools and confidence they need to meet the challenge of economic change.

"Today's announcement would not have been possible without the dedicated and collaborative effort between Native organizations and our postsecondary institutions," said Dr. Allen. "By working together and creating effective partnerships we've shown how we can eliminate both real and perceived barriers to educational opportunity for the Native peoples of Ontario."

The Native Education and Training Strategy was one of several intitiatives announced today by the government aimed at improving the quality of life of Ontario's aboriginal peoples.

MINISTER OF EDUCATION ANNOUNCES ABORIGINAL EDUCATION FUNDING

Ref: Janice Galivan

Education Liaison and Exchange Branch (416) 965-9178 May 9, 1991 For immediate release

Ontario Minister of Education Marion Boyd today announced funding of $1.15 million, this fiscal year, for demonstration projects in Aboriginal education.

"We believe that all the investments Ontarians make in social equity lead to a healthier society and a stronger economy," said Mrs. Boyd. "These projects have two key objectives. First, they will improve the quality of education for Aboriginal children. Second, they will strengthen Aboriginal participation in self government processes."

The demonstration projects will address the needs of both on-reserve and off-reserve Aboriginal people.

Through the ongoing tripartite negotiations between First Nations, Canada and Ontario, funds will also be available to participating First Nations organizations for the development of organizational models. These models may prove useful to other Aboriginal communities.

The Ministry of Education is currently drafting criteria for the funding of these demonstration projects. These criteria, the priorities for funding and the management of these projects will be the subject of consultation with Aboriginal people.

Projects could examine issues such as:

- increasing student retention rates;
- addressing the unique needs of northern students;
- developing partnerships between Aboriginal communities and school boards;
- and developing culturally appropriate programs.

"It is my hope that these projects will help pave the way for more meaningful and more successful education experiences in Aboriginal communities," said Mrs. Boyd.

Dear Native Storytellers,

This year the Summer Institute is pleased to offer an opportunity for talented aboriginal writers to learn screenwriting for television or feature films at the 11th annual Summer Institute's week-long workshops, June 9-14, in Ottawa.

We are pleased to have as the resource person, native playwright and screenwriter, Drew Taylor, whose screen credits include THE BEACHCOMBERS and NIGHT HEAT.

As well, his stage plays, TORONTO AT DREAMER'S ROCK and BOOTLEGGER BLUES, have enjoyed successful tours across Ontario and soon will be performed in the United States.

Mr. Taylor has been actively assisting emerging screenwriters in the Collaborative Vision workshops sponsored by CBC Television's National Training Department.

Mr. Taylor believes that Canada's rich heritage of aboriginal narratives - myths, legends and stories - are an untapped source of wonderful and important stories.

This workshop will demonstrate how individuals can delve into this special voice and create stories suitable for the film or television screen. The focus will be to demonstrate that writing for the screen is another medium to be used by natives to tell their stories.

Elements to be discussed: drama, humour, morals, allegories, historical perspective, spiritual guidance. The concentration will be on the development of contemporary legends and contemporary storytellers.

This workshop will be one of 29 workshops in screenwriting, producing, acting, and directing to be offered during the week.

The cost of the workshop is $395, with rooms available for under $25 per day, with breakfast. To register or for more information, please call the Summer Institute (613) 598-4530, extension 5814.

Applications for possible funding may be sent to the Canadian Native Arts Foundation, Suite 315, 99 Atlantic Avenue, Toronto M6K 3J8, or telephone (416) 588-3328.

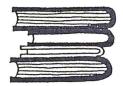

Cordially yours,

Yourshoebridge.

APRIL 24,1991 4TH ANNUAL HEALTHY LIFESTYLES WORKSHOP SIR JAMES WHITNEY SCHOOL

The 4th Annual awareness workshop was a tremendous success this year. The focus group this year was Grade 9 and 10. Native Students from the various High Schools and Sir James Whitney school were asked to attend. The topics on the agenda involved 4 discussion workshops which were:

- 1. Teen Suicide
- 3. Racism

- 2. Teen Pregnancy
 - 4. Sexual Transmitted Diseases

Each Student was asked to register for two of the 4 topics. Each workshop consisted of 2 hours of lectures, small group discussions and feedback.

The beginning of the workshop started with our own guest speaker Mr. Andrew Maracle. Mr Maracle opened with a prayer in Mohawk and later translated it into English. He spoke and brought across to the students a message of opening your minds to learn and if you want success tomorrow you have to prepare yourself today. It was indeed a very inspirational message and each student had that to think about before they were about to challenge the workshop topics. Our Band Office Administrator Ken Crowe welcomed all students.

RACISM

The topic of Racism was discussed by Ruby Miller. Ruby is a Mohawk from Six Nations. She is employed at the Ontario Federation of Indian Friendship Centre in Toronto. She spoke of her experiences of moving from the Reserve to the Big City. She explained to the students that Racism is a Race of people that trys to prove that other races are inferior to them. Racism is learned or taught, people are not born with racism. Native young people are subjected to racism and used every day because of the sterotyped Indian. Ruby also spoke on the repercussions of the Oka Crisis and the students were very involved with discussing the affects it had on the Indian People as a whole, it's results on stresses, emotions, conflicts issues and concerns.

SEXUALLY TRANSMITTED DISEASES

Cindy White (employed with Chiefs of Ontario) and Marilyn Huff (employed with the Association of Iroquois and Allied Indians) were the guest speakers on this topic. The topic of Sex is a very difficult topic to discuss with the younger high school students therefore a game was played to help familiarize the student with the names and words which would be used in these discussions. This game made the students much more comfortable with asking questions that they might not have asked if this game wasn't played before hand.

Videos were shown on some sexual transmitted diseases. The types, symptoms, how it spreads and prevention were taught.

TEEN PREGNANCY

Teen pregnancy was presented by Gertie A. Beucage . Gertie is from Anishanwbeq Nation and comes from the Bear Clan. She taught the students a very brief overview of THE SEVEN STAGES OF A GOOD LIFE.

1. Good Life

- 2. Fast Life
- 3. Wandering & Wondering
- 4. True Life

5. Planting Life

6. Doing Life

7. Teaching Life

Each Stage was taken in more detail and explained that life goes through each stage and should be taken very seriously. She talked of each stage in terms of the age of an individual and what they should expect to confront. After this teaching the message of DO OT ACCELERATE LIFE was given. Take each day and live it to it's fullest because this is your Gift from the Creator.

Teen pregnancy was talked about with the responsibilities it possesses along with prevention, dealing with teen pregnancy and the options (when pregnant).

TEEN SUICIDE

Steve Koptie presented this topic. He is a Mohawk Indian born and Educated in Brantford and presently working with the Native Community Crisis Team. He talked of the causes of teen suicides, the emotional affects it has on an individual who has attempted suicide and what we can do to prevent suicide. He taught the students on how to recognize the clues of someone who may be thinking of suicide and spoke of resources available. This topic had lots of questions brought forward for discussion.

When the workshop was finished I asked questions to two students to find what their response was to being taught Serious Indian Issues.

The questions were:

WHAT DID YOU THINK OF THE NATIVE WORKSHOP AS A LEARNING EXPERIENCE?

Female response:

I found it very interesting and I liked it very much.

Male response:

I felt it was pretty good. Sometimes I felt they talked too much and then I got lost on what they were saying.

DID YOU FIND IT EASIER TO LEARN FORM AN INDIAN TEACHER?

Female response:

I felt more comfortable with People who could speak about what was happening. Especially Racism because the teacher had to deal with it in her life experiences.

Male response:

Yes it was easier to learn from teachers who were Indians because they could relate to what was happening.

DID YOU LEARN ANYTHING NEW TODAY THAT YOU DIDN'T ALREADY KNOW?

Female response:

I felt it was mostly review from what was taught in School

Male response:

Yes, I felt I learned more on Racism and Sexual Transmitted Diseases more than what I may have learned in school.

When an overall evaluation was given to all Students and the question was asked What theme would you choose for the next workshop?

- 1. Drug And Alcohol Abuse (How to cope with Families Involved and How to avoid it)
- 2. Divorce (The Effects of Divorce and How to Cope)
- 3. American Native History & Politics

Strategies for Success

Tyendinaga to Take Part in Satellite Conference for Growing Businesses

by Vicki Jasperse

For Canada's small and medium-sized businesses -- native and non-native alike -- surviving from one day to the next may not be the greatest challenge. Sometimes the hardest part is finding and tapping into the various sources of business assistance that could help them grow and become more competitive in the marketplace.

The Department of Industry, Science and Technology, in partnership with various federal interests including the Economic Development sector of DIAND, provincial and territorial governments and the private sector will mount a national satellite conference and trade show on May 29, 1991. Entitled Strategies for Success, this innovative and ambitious event will link some 27 locations across Canada. Targeting enterprises employing five to 100 people, the conference will focus on the assistance available to firms ready or starting to grow.

A moderator and panel of experts will be on hand at each site to share experiences and goals on four key challenges: human resources management, market development, technological innovation and financing. These local sites will be linked by interactive satellite technology to a national panel representing a broad range of business interests and including several prominent aboriginal entrepreneurs.

Mohawk Entrepreneurs

The Tyendinaga Mohawk Territory, located near Deseronto, Ontario, will be one of the sites participating in the national hook-up. Selected over other eastern Ontario bidders -- including Ottawa -- the Tyendinaga Mohawk Territory has a population of 2,000. Approximately 90 native-owned and operated businesses, ranging from computer manufacturing and software development, aviation technology training, footwear manufacturing, native arts and crafts wholesaling and retailing, and the building trades are looking forward to participating in this event.

The Tyendinaga Mohawk Council views this conference as an important event in its economic development program, as it enables the community to discuss with leading professionals across the country the problems and opportunities facing entrepreneurs on a global scale, as well as the unique experiences of Mohawk entrepreneurs.

Cultural Context

This event will also be an opportunity for Tyendinaga to showcase the community's businesses and business opportunities to a national as well as regional market in a cultural context rarely experienced by the "mainstream" economy.

The Council has formed a committee to organize and oversee this event, calling upon experienced professionals. Committee members include: Bruce Millar, President of the First Nations Technical Institute; Lorrie Maracle, Human Resources Specialist (Northern Telecom); and Doug Anderson, Commercial Loan Specialist (Bank of Montreal).

It is anticipated that over 100 native and non-native entrepreneurs from eastern Ontario will gather in Tyendinaga to share information and develop business relationships that will last long after the conference is over.

Business Talking to Business

The goal of Strategies for Success is to enable business to talk to business -- to cooperatively examine the key challenges facing small and medium-sized business. To complement the conference, a "turnkey" workshop package for educational and media use will be developed, containing the conference participants' training manual, a workbook and a comprehensive video of the May 29th event. Plans for a home study television series are also underway.

The satellite conference is unique in its use of technology, the scope of participation, and its potential to reach a large audience from coast to coast. Even remote communities, if equipped with a satellite dish, will be accessible.

A wrap-up broadcast will feature a discussion between the local moderators and the national panel addressing the questions and concerns raised during the day. Strategies for Success is expected to reach more than 2,000 businesses during the one-day satellite conference. ∇

FIRST FEMALE JUDGE APPOINTED

The country's first female Native judge has become a new positive role model for Aboriginal children in Canada.

Terry Vyse, a full-blooded Mohawk was recently named to the bench of the provincial division of the Ontario court.

Vyse has been practicing law for nearly 12 years in St. Catherines, Ontario, and welcomes the opportunity to set an example for Native children. She told the Canadian Press that she "saw the opportunity to open this door and let other Native young people see that it is open. You can walk this way."

At age 38, Vyse has been one of approximately 160 Native lawyers in the country. She has now become the fourth Aboriginal judge in Canada and the first

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

On December 7th. & 8th., 1990, Waseskun House held a family violence workshop which focussed on men who batter their children and spouses. As part of our mandate, and in response to concerns voiced by Native communities and organizations at this first conference, we are having a second conference on June 6, 7 & 8, 1991, entitled: "Communities in Crisis: Healing Ourselves." This national conference will continue the work initiated in the first conference. Working together, we can help to break this cycle of violence by sensitizing the Native communities and outside resources to the importance of recognizing these problems, and offering concrete solutions for change. This will be done through workshops run by Native community workers from across the country with expertise in healing individuals, families and communities.

CONFERENCE THEMES:

- 1. Native Inmates and the Justice System
- 2. Family Violence in Native Communities
- 3. Community Involvement (Healing Ourselves)

* Day care service will be available for conference participants bringing children from 3 years old to 12 years old. This service costs $10, per child per day which includes lunch and snacks. Please inform us in advance so that we can make proper arrangements.

WINGS OF TRUTH

What is truth
Whither is she found?
Do we find her in a lab
Or just lying on the ground.

Must we believe Everything we're told. Because its taken From the Holy Book.

Or must we search With heart and soul And take that Second look.

There is no shame, in gaining knowledge God blessed us with a mind. He says the truth is here, my child Seek and you shall find.

Science makes discoveries
But alone is too materialistic
Religion - Gods great cause of love
Errant man, bogs down in superstition.

Science and religion Do go hand in hand. Man can discover God can command.

Put these two together And they compliment each other. The bird of truth now has two wings See how she rises, soars and sings.
